

RSL-Xtender Sell-Setup “Conservative Early”

early-v1.json — August 2026 — ☐ field-testing in progress

Who is it for?

Early accounts: you farm dungeons between stages ~10 and 15 (the pivot is Dragon 13 — the first stage where 6★ gear drops). Clan Boss Easy/Normal/Hard. If you can auto Dragon 16+, switch to the Mid profile.

Why a dedicated early profile?

An early player wears what a mid player would sell: 4★ rares, “weak” sets (Life, Offense, Defense), average-stat pieces. Using a midgame file early means selling the gear your champions need. This profile is therefore very conservative: it only sells what has objectively no use.

The rules

Rule	Detail
Common / Uncommon	always sold
Rank ≤ 3★	sold (≤ 2★ for premium/event sets)
4★ rare/epic with NO good stat at all	sold — a single stat among SPD, C.RATE, C.DMG, ACC, RES, HP%, ATK%, DEF% saves the piece
5★ rare with no good substat	sold
Chest/gauntlets/boots with a flat main	rare ≤ 5★ sold; epic sold only if it also has no good substat
5★+ epics and legendaries	NEVER auto-sold
First 6★ drops (Dragon 13+)	never auto-sold (except common/uncommon)

Special protections

- Speed and Lifesteal: no quality rules at all — early on, the set bonus is worth more than the stats (your campaign farmer’s Lifesteal set stays until mid-game).
- ACC saves everything: any piece with Accuracy passes the filters — the stat you can’t find early, vital for Clan Boss debuffers.
- C.DMG% amulets are never sold (the only accessory slot that can roll it).
- Upgraded pieces (level > 4) protected — fits “level to +4, check, decide”.
- Accessories: epics/legendaries never sold, 3★ rares kept (Spider < 13).

When to switch to the Mid profile

When you can auto Dragon 16+ (and Brutal CB takes 2-4 keys): your drops become mostly 5-6★ and this profile then keeps too much.
